Science Festivity 2009

When science becomes yours!
1-3 April 2009

Under the auspices of the Egyptian Ministry of Petroleum, and in cooperation with the Egyptian Ministry of Education, the Bibliotheca Alexandrina (BA) is organizing the Third Science Festivity, 1-3 April 2009. The overarching theme of the Science Festivity 2009 is "Energy"; the most pressing challenge of the 21st century.

The Science Festivity is a huge public event that gives science a presence in the community and offers people of all ages and backgrounds the opportunity to question, discuss, and explore.

The hub of the Science Festivity is the Science Village, which hosts a large diversity of hands-on and interactive exhibits, in addition to the always intriguing Super Science Show. This year, visitors of the Science Village will also get the chance to attend lectures and presentations, as well as "Science Cafés".

The Science Village will be at the BA Plaza, 1-3 April, 9:30-16:30 hrs; and at the Antoniadis Gardens on 3 April, 13:00-18:00 hrs. Visitors of the Science Village will experience the pleasure of lifelong learning by participating in the various activities offered; whether with family, friends, or on their own. The Egyptian band "Masar Egbary" will be performing at the Science Village on 2 April, starting at 16:00 hrs.
