

CCMW's Canadian Muslim Women Who Inspire campaign, builds upon some of CCMW's other initiatives, including In the Footsteps of Canadian Muslim Women, 1837-2007; and At My Mother's Feet: Stories of Pioneer Muslim Women.

In the Footsteps of Muslim Women outlines the history of Muslim communities in Canada through the achievements/contributions of Canadian Muslim women.

The other publication, At My Mother's Feet, is a series of stories by Muslim women who were pioneers in their fields. Despite enormous social pressure from within their own communities and beyond, these women helped create the first Muslim social institutions in Canadian and inspired a new generation of women to move ahead with pride in their religion and cultures.

Muslim women continue to be portrayed in the media as oppressed and voiceless. Through the Women Who Inspire campaign and the above-mentioned initiatives we aim to change this, and celebrate and share the stories of Canadian Muslim women.
